

Comedy, Drama Or Romance: Enjoy 15 Different Plays At The Old World Theatre Festival

Photos Courtesy: Old World Culture

India Habitat Centre
Lodhi Road

+911124682002

MORE INFO

What Is It?

Inaugurated in 2002, Old World Theatre Festival is aimed at preserving and progressing the theatre culture in the country. A lively theatrical jamboree that you can be a part of, this festival celebrates the ancient art form and the actors who perform the same.

Who Is It For?

If you're looking to witness the beauty of theatre, OWTF is where you need to head. The theatrical community is burning with passion and they're all set to take the stage and bring you some of the best performances in the country.

A refreshing change from the usual suspects, like music festivals, attending the OWTF will open your mind to a delightful art form.

Why Should I Go For It?

A mixture of Hindi and English plays will be staged at the festival and we suggest you sit back and enjoy the show. Drama Queen, How Cow Now Cow, D For Dhumrapaan, Toxic and many more interesting ones {based on a variety of themes like misogyny, love or office politics} will take your mind on a magical {and maybe confusing} journey.

So, as you settle in, we would recommend that you prepare yourself for some laughs, tears, puzzling thoughts, and most of all, unparalleled entertainment.

Where: Indian Habitat Centre, New Delhi

When: 6-15 Oct., 2017

Timings: 5pm {first day first show} to 7pm {last day last show}

Ticket price: Starting at INR 200 {tickets on sale from Sep 10}